

BronX BandA

Community Music Project of Casita Maria Center for Arts & Education

About the Project

BronX BandA is a community music project of Casita Maria Center for Arts & Education, founded and directed by Arturo O'Farrill. The ensemble is composed of professional musicians who create and perform original music inspired by the stories, neighborhoods, and cultural diversity of the Bronx.

Artistic Vision

Drawing from the voices and experiences of Bronx residents, the ensemble transforms community stories into original contemporary performances that blend jazz, Latin American traditions, improvisation, and spoken word.

Horacio Martínez

Horacio Martínez joined BronX BandA in 2023 as a guitarist. He performs on nylon-string and electric guitar, bringing his background in South American folk traditions, jazz, and improvisation to the ensemble's original music inspired by the stories of the Bronx.

Performances

BronX BandA performs throughout New York City at cultural institutions, festivals, and community events, celebrating the borough's cultural richness through original music.
